

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A camera comprises a charge-coupled device (CCD). The CCD has an anti-stokes phosphor bound to the light receiving surface thereof. A housing surrounds the CCD and defines a filtered aperture through which, in use, light can pass and be received by the phosphor CCD.